Bell files suit over city review

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

The owner of a convenience store with liquor sales in a residential neighborhood in Granite City is asking a judge to prevent the city from a further review of the controversial business.

Bell Brothers Inc., doing business at 2446 Washington Ave. as Ice House Liquors, has asked for a permanent and temporary injunction against the city preventing further action on the business.

In his complaint, filed last week, Bob Bell states that he requested and was granted liquor and business licenses and a building permit to remodel the store before opening the business in May.

But after the business was approved, Bell alleges, the city attorney staff ruled that the matter must be approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission and the City Council.

Bell states in a sworn affidavit that he "expended considerable amounts of monies, approaching $30,000, in supplying said business, prior to the information and change in attitude by the mayor and building inspector."

The property is zoned R-3. A service station — a C-5 use — has operated at the site since 1934; most recently Bell Brothers Mobil Station. The convenience and package liquor store is also a C-5 use.

The Planning and Zoning Commission, a citizen advisory board, heard testimony opposing and in favor of the permit Aug. 11, then voted 5-3 to recommend granting a permit with no restrictions as to hours of operation, lighting or signage.

But because the commission is a 10-member board requiring six votes to make a recommendation, the matter went before the City Council with no official recommendation.

Last week, the City Council requested further review by the Planning and Zoning Commission on a request by Bob Bell and Ron Goforth, owners of Ice House Liquors, for a nonconforming use at the property.

The council asked that the Planning and Zoning Commission make recommendations regarding restrictions of hours of operation, lighting, signage and other details on the use of the property.

Nearby residents complained at both the Planning and Zoning hearing and the City Council meeting that the liquor store has been disruptive to the neighborhood and resulted in increased traffic, trash, loitering and vandalism. Opponents filed petitions with the council containing signatures of 152 interested persons opposing the establishment.

"I understand Mr. Bell has invested a lot of money in this. But we want the City Council to consider the investment residents have made in the neighborhood," said Barb Battles.

Morgan Scroggins, Bell and Goforth's attorney, said that the business is consis

Boy Scout Steve Smith paints a fire hydrant along Nameoki Road as part of his Eagle Scout project.

Perfect project

Scouts paint fire hydrants

By Hiley Schulte
Staff writer

It was a tough, hot job, and nobody wanted to do it. The job sat around for more than a year, and finally Steve Smith and some members of his Boy Scout troop volunteered.

So, after two weeks of painting, nearly all 167 fire hydrants in the Mitchell water district are done — and so is the latest Eagle Scout service project for Smith.

Smith said his troop was looking for a project and heard through Leroy Stark that the hydrants needed to be painted. Stark is a member of the Mitchell Water Board, a chartered scout representative for Chouteau Township and unit commander of Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts in Mitchell.

"It was the perfect Eagle Scout project, and he's done several projects through the years," Stark explained.

Eagle Scout projects are required to be done for churches, schools or the community in general, but not to directly benefit Boy Scouts. By doing such a project, a Boy Scout can achieve the Eagle Scout status, the highest honor in Boy Scouting.

"It gets them dealing with someone other than Scouts," said Stark.

Group backs high school proposal

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

[illegible]oup of area residents has banded [illegible]r and formed a task force to promote the passage of a Granite City School District bond issue on the Nov. 8 ballot.

The Citizens Advisory Committee for the Preservation and Restoration of Granite City High School (CPR) toured the 70-year-old high school facility last week.

"By simply walking around the building and seeing trash barrels catching water falling from leaking ceilings, lockers so badly damaged they could no longer be closed, ceilings with tiles missing, and rotting window frames that don't allow windows to remain open, the need for the renovation was quite evident," said R C Bush, execuc tive vice president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the task force.

Bush

The task force was formed for the purpose of promoting and passing a Nov. 8 referendum that would authorize a bond issue for the district, to be repaid by extending an existing 34-cent tax levy for the district's bond and interest fund.

That tax rate translates into $68 per year on a home with a fair market value of $60,000 and an assessed valuation of $20,000.

A "yes" vote in November would authorize continuation of the tax at that rate. A "no" vote would result in elimination of the tax.

By continuing the tax at that rate, the district can raise enough money over a 20-year period to repay an $11 million to $12 million debt, said Gene Logas, the district's director of finance.

Members of the task force are scheduling speaking engagements, tours of the high school and informational meetings to promote the bond issue question.

Other task force members include Tom Hewlett and Kathy Goclan, vice chairmen; Goni Michaeloff, secretary; Harold Gebhardt, treasurer; and Bob Meszaros, Eric Robertson, Ray Morgan, Bruce Rushing, Rosemarie Brown; Nick Petrillo, Bud Charbonnier, Steve Hurd, Bob Palus, George Cook, Glen Hollis and John Janek.

Bridick suing for pay

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Like his brother before him, former Madison Police Chief Charlie Bridick is suing the city to recoup accumulated vacation pay and bonuses he says he is owed.

Bridick retired Jan. 10. According to the lawsuit, he was owed 36 days of accrued vacation pay when he retired.

He also claims that the city owes him a longevity bonus payment of $1,869 per year from 1989 through the day of his retirement, a total of about $9,345.

In the suit, Bridick alleges that he has "demanded" the vacation pay from the city, but that the city has refused to pay.

Nearly 10 years ago, Bridick's brother Don Bridick — also a former police chief — sued the city for vacation, compensatory and sick pay he says the city owes him.

That case was tried for two days in 1985 before a Madison County judge dismissed himself. A hearing — before an out-of-county judge — is set for later this month.

Help for those in need

Housing programs provide assistance

By Hiley Schulte
Staff writer

Pat Luchini, Section 8 Director of Madison County Housing Authority, likes to help people in need. What she hates is when those people are discouraged.

"Society sometimes pushes us into these situations, and it can't be helped" she said.

Luchini has worked with the housing authority for 15 years, and she believes Section 8 is a fantastic program. "Many of the people who come through the agency...if it weren't for us, they'd be homeless," she said.

Luchini mentioned one elderly lady who had an income of $275 a month. Before Section 8, the woman paid $200 a month in rent.

"I looked in her refrigerator, and she had no food. The stove had not been used. I looked in her cabinets, and they were full of cat food. Her and her cats had been eating cat food. That was all she could afford," she said.

Section 8 is a federal program which provides housing at a lower rate to those on fixed incomes.

"It's different than public housing, though," Luchini said. "Public housing became like sore eyes. With this, we give them tickets. They can go anywhere, and people don't know they're Section 8."

Under the program, the tenant signs the lease, and Section 8 signs a contract with the landlord. There are a few options under Section 8, but in any case, the tenant pays a portion of the rent, usually 30 percent of the family income, and the Madison County Housing Authority pays the rest.

Tenants are required to stick to the terms of the lease and city ordinances.

"If they are responsible to say cut their grass and put their trash in proper containers, we say, 'Hey, do it man. You can't afford to pay your rent,' " Luchini said.

The housing authority performs annual inspections at its tenants' housing. If it finds deficiencies, the landlord is contacted to make the repairs. If the landlord does not comply within 30 days, he or she doesn't get the housing authority's portion of the rent.

If there are problems before or after the annual inspection which the housing authority is unaware of, "the community usually contacts us," Luchini said.

That goes for problems coming from either the landlord or the tenant. "They could be throwing the trash out the back door for a whole year before we know it, if someone doesn't contact us," Luchini said.

Section 8 allows families mobility in the selection of better neighborhoods and gives owners the right to participate or decline. They can screen their tenants, do credit checks, contact the tenants' previous or current landlord to assure no damages and late rent payments history, or check tenants for any history of violent crimes or drug arrests.

Luchini said Section 8 is currently helping 860 people in Madison County, and there are 1,800 people on the waiting list.

One of the Section 8 programs is "Existing Certificates." Existing certificates can assist 534 families. The certificate allows a family to find a unit within HUD's (Housing and Urban Development) fair market rents.

The tenants may take their certificate anywhere within the state, or to its close borders. This means that someone in Granite City could live in St. Louis, Mo.

However, the housing authority requires the family to initially live in its jurisdiction for one year before observing the right.

All units must meet Housing Quality Standards (HQS), a HUD requirement. Tenants are permitted to rent a house, apartment, mobile home or duplex. The tenant is not allowed to make a side payment, and they are responsible to find their own unit, which is called "Finder Keepers."

Another program is "Moderate Rehabilitation." There are 49 units in this program, which is similar to public housing.

These families cannot move with continuous assistance, as the certificate stays within the unit only. After the contract expires, the families are offered a certificate or voucher which will allow them to stay or move.

A third program, "Voucher Program," began in 1985, and there are 277 slots. Vouchers allow the families to select a unit that could be over the fair market rents.

The voucher program has a payment standard that is set by the housing authority, not fair market rents. If the owner charges rent over the set payment standard, the tenant has to pay the difference which is called a side payment.

These families may move anywhere within the United States. However, the families are required to live in the Madison County jurisdiction for one year. This is called regulatory portability.

A new program, "Family Self Sufficiency," began in 1992. There are 75 slots, meaning 75 families must be signed by 1995. This program is geared to help families survive without the support any government assistance programs.

Tenants sign a five-year contract. Portability is not allowed for these families unless the housing authority can justify the reason and assure the resources are available.

The difference between the rent paid and the 30 percent of the family's adjusted income is to be placed in an interest-bearing escrow account. If the family drops out of the program before the five years, the family does not have the right to the escrow money or interest.

Also, if a family cashes out and later wants to return to the program, the family must pay the money back.

Luchini is excited about this program because it offers incentive. "If you've never seen your mom and dad go to work, you have no incentive to go to school. This program offers money, so maybe people won't be scared to death to give up that medical card and go to school," she said.

"In order to make this program a success, we will have to devote a lot of time with these families. We are looking at third generations of families that have never worked, completed high school, and in some cases, cannot read or write. Families will be given an opportunity to climb out of poverty and create a life of dignity and independence," she added.

Wetland program Sept. 10 at Carlyle

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Carlyle Lake is inviting everyone to attend the upcoming program that will be held in the Carlyle Lake Visitor Center on Sept. 10, starting at 10 a.m.

What is a wetland? Can you name the three necessary elements to validate the presence of a wetland? If you own land did you ever wonder if you had a wetland on property you own? If so, are you complying with Section 404 of the Clean Water Act? Do you need a permit? What can you do with wetland property?

Keith McMullen, Wildlife Biologist with the St. Louis District Corps of Engineers, Regulatory Branch, will answer these questions and many others as he presents an interpretive overview of the Section 404 permit process. A slide show will be presented with discussions of several recent program changes that could affect all landowners.

For more information about this program, contact Park Ranger Norma Hall at the Carlyle Lake Management Office Monday through Friday, 594-2484 or the Carlyle Lake Visitor Center 594-LAKE every day from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Carlyle Lake would like to invite everyone to join Keith McMullen, a Wildlife Biologist with the St. Louis District Corps of Engineers, Regulatory Branch, on Sept. 10, at the Carlyle Lake Visitor Center at 11 a.m., for a field trip to observe shorebirds.

McMullen is an avid birder, and following his presentation, "What is a Wetland?" in the Visitor Center, he will lead a field trip to Pump Station 2.

There, the Corps of Engineers has developed the area for waterfowl and shorebird habitat. An introduction to birding, in general, and shorebird identification, in particular, are scheduled to be discussed. Spotting scopes and binoculars will be available, although you are encouraged to bring your own.

Costello explains switch in vote on U.S. crime bill

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello had to dodge bullets at a town hall meeting in Wood River Monday dominated by questions about his vote on the new crime bill and its effects on gun control.

The informal exchange at 9 a.m. at City Hall drew about 20 people looking for answers on health care, trade agreements and federal projects, but most were men concerned about the new ban on some firearms.

The Belleville Democrat said he attempted to force changes in the crime bill by voting twice on rules to keep the measure from coming before the full House of Representatives.

"I had President Clinton call and ask for my vote, and I told him he would have it if the crime bill dropped three items, including the ban on assault weapons," he said.

The bill's first defeat on rules by a vote of 225-210 brought some concessions, including a drop in the total price tag, but the ban on assault weapons was part of the final crime bill package approved by the House Aug. 21, he said.

The plan failed by a vote of 238-198 on the second round when three Democrats and a larger number of moderate Republicans switched votes.

"When the rule vote passed, that was the victory. We lost, and we have to accept that," Costello said.

Costello

"I voted for the full crime bill because there was more good in it than bad," he said. "We will see more police and crisis intervention programs funded through the package, but gun control is not the way to solve the crime problem. It goes too far and hampers the right of law-abiding citizens. If we could get a bill to outlaw only military weapons not used by hunters or sportsmen, I would vote for it."

The final vote on the bill was 235-195 in the Senate Aug. 26. It awaits the president's signature.

Costello said people don't understand that the crime bill covers 19 classes of assault weapons, not 19 weapons. The ban was too broad, he said.

Several men at Monday's meeting said they fear the ban would eliminate some guns like the AR-15 used in competitive shooting or others prized by collectors.

"I own a semiautomatic Uzi, and I'm a law-abiding citizen. I collect military weapons," David Hatfield said. "The AR-15 is used in national competition and it has to be replaced."

Costello said his record was 100 percent against gun control legislation, including a vote against the Brady bill.

"All I can do is tell you how I stand," he said, adding that he expects gun control proposals to keep hitting Congress.

Costello said he also expects passage of a health care reform bill this year that will cover workers with pre-existing health problems and allow them to take medical insurance along when they change jobs or are laid off.

Debate over other health care options, particularly funding, is part of the healthy process of a democracy, he said.

"You have to give credit to the president. We're addressing the issues," he said.

Costello said a recent poll he conducted shows people know what kind of health care they want — universal coverage, employer payments, cost control, and a choice of doctors and hospitals — but nobody knows how to pay for it.

"I don't want to see the federal government come in and take over the plan, although the government does some things right, like Social Security and Medicare," he said.

"Medicare serves millions of seniors and has a lower administrative rate than the private insurance system," he added.

3.5 percent tuition increase proposed at SIUE for next year

Tuition for Southern Illinois University students will increase again next year if the Board of Trustees accepts a recommendation by Chancellor James Brown.

Brown proposes a 3.5 percent tuition increase from $1,778 a year to $1,842 for full-time undergraduates at the Edwardsville campus and from $2,163 a year to $2,240 for undergraduate and graduate students taking 14 credit hours at Carbondale. Tuition for full-time graduate students at Edwardsville would increase to $1,974. Tuition for out-of-state students would increase proportionally.

The plan follows state Board of Higher Education policy that tuition increases should approximate the rate of inflation.

Tuition at the university's professional schools would be hiked 15 percent. That would mean an increase to $5,200 from $4,500 a year at the School of Dental Medicine in Alton.

In April, the board increased general tuition 3 percent for the current school year after administration recommendations for 5.6 percent increases this year and 5.2 percent next year came under fire from legislators.

Historically, tuition at SIU has been lower than at other Illinois public universities, and Brown said he thinks much larger tuition hikes could be justified. Undergraduate tuition at SIUE is the lowest in the state, $123 less a year than at Eastern or Western Illinois universities.

Brown has said the university needs more money to improve quality of instruction.

"We didn't find a reasonable way to make up our tuition differences," he said this week.

SIUE College Democrats President Lisa Ryder said many students will be annoyed by the increase but are unlikely to react sharply.

She said another tuition hike was expected.

Ryder said students could better stomach tuition increases if they could see they were getting something in return. Tuition seems to go up every year, while programs and faculty are being cut, she said.

The proposed increase at the School of Dental Medicine would be used to update instructional equipment and laboratory facilities.

"All our professional schools are low in cost compared to others around the state," Brown said.

River recommendations offered

By By Deb Sauerhage
Correspondent

If it isn't broke, don't fix it — that seems to be the recommendation of landowners along the Kaskaskia River Corridor.

Several hundred landowners met recently at three different meeting sites to discuss and suggest solutions to the ecological and economic problems facing the corridor.

"Most landowners say they want to see the corridor as it is for the next 50 years," said Larry Hasheider, chairman of the Kaskaskia Resources Private Lands Initiative Committee.

The 24-member committee, with members from seven counties, is part of Southwestern Illinois Resource Conservation and Development, Inc. It was formed after the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service proposed a government-owned wildlife refuge in 1992.

According to the group's newsletter, their goal is "to develop, enhance and protect the ecological and socioeconomic values of the natural resourses of the Kaskaskia Basin while continuing private ownership."

The area includes the 100-year flood plain of the Kaskaskia River between Fayetteville and Carlyle Lake.

Nearly 2,300 landowners own the 30,000 acres which make up the Kaskaskia River Bottoms, and the 100,000 acres that include forests, croplands, pastures and homes and which is the largest forested ecosystem in the state.

"Most people think the largest forested area is Shawnee National Forest," said Hasheider of rural Okawville. "But it's right here in our backyard."

Biological and ecological assessments are being made of the corridor along with a mapping of the 100-year flood plain. The data will also include interviews with 50 landowners, input from public meetings and questionnaires to determine what the landowners want.

During three meetings held last week, landowners were asked their opinions on what they thought were the problems facing the corridor and how they wanted it to be in 50 years.

"We need to keep it like it is, with more tree-planting to replace what has been taken out," said Walbemar Hermeling of Okawville, who owns 18 acres along the Kaskaskia. "We have lots of deer here."

Roger Eccles of Fayetteville, who also owns 18 acres, agrees.

'I don't want it developed," he said. "It would break my property in half. I want it to stay pretty well as it is."

Tax workshop set for Wednesday

Business owners work hard to reach the American dream. Unfortunately, lack of knowledge about their tax responsibilities as the sole owner of a business could turn that dream into a nightmare.

A one-day tax workshop sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service, Illinois Department of Revenue, and the Small Business Development Center at Southern Illinois University (Edwardsville) is designed to help small business owners avoid tax reporting pitfalls. The workshop will be held in Edwardsville on Wednesday, Sept. 7 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

A representative from the IRS will cover business recordkeeping, specific forms businesses must file, income reporting, deductible expenses and depreciation.

Don't become a 'parent dropout'

TO THE EDITOR:

On June 6 a group of concerned citizens including parents, educators and law officers, had the privilege of attending a seminar on violence prevention conducted by Dr. Louis D. Gonzales of Castro Valley, California.

Dr. Gonzales is a former principal who now speaks with experience on how to restore peace to schools plagued with violence and gang activities. This seminar, held in Collinsville, was sponsored by the St. Clair Mental Health Board, area schools and law enforcement agencies of the Metro East.

According to Gonzales, people today can have different points of view and cultural diversity yet come together to instill good morals and ethics into our children.

This must be done to effect a less violent society.

How do we allow our children to behave? Who are our children's role models?

The statement that "It takes a whole village to raise a child" was repeated throughout Dr. Gonzales' presentation. Parents, teachers, churches, police officers and community workers are all necessary to work together for the good of our children.

Listed below are some warning signs to look for that may signal violence with our children:

* Buying an excessive amount of specific colors.

* Using an excessive amount of gang verbiage.

* Withdrawing from family members.

* Suddenly receiving poor grades.

* Spending more money than usual and not working.

* Receiving excessive disciplinary referrals in school — such as fighting, confrontations, or gang-related activity.

If your child shows any of these signs, it is cause for concern. Too many of us parents have become "Parent Dropouts!"

These are parents who end involvement with their kids when they graduate from elementary school.

So what are some things we can do?

* Talk to our kids. There is no substitute for a parent's involvement in a child's life.

* Turn off the TV. Children imitate what they see. A 1993 survey states that children can view up to 1800 acts of violence on TV in one day.

* Visit the school. Know your child's teacher and classroom environment.

* Praise often, criticize less. Try to notice your child when he or she is doing something positive.

* Say what you mean and mean what you say. Children desire boundaries and limits.

* Demonstrate unconditional love. Your child must know that nothing is too bad to confide in his/her parents first. Children learn from how a situation is managed.

In summary, we need to remember what we are our children's first and most influential leaders and teachers. Picture your child with the letters "MMFI" on his/her forehead. This stands for "Make Me Feel Important." And that is what we need to do.

Spend time with our kids and make them believe that they really are our most precious treasure in our lives. By valuing and carefully nurturing our children, we can bring about a more peaceful and less violent society.

More power for 'Big Brother'?

TO THE EDITOR:

All of us are aware of the recent news media blitz aimed at getting President Clinton's crime and health-care bills passed. But, wait a minute — let's think about this. It is reported that the crime bill contained more than 960 pages and the health-care bill is more than 1,300 pages.

It is very difficult for me to believe that our congressional members can carry on rather hectic normal daily business and at the same time read, study and cast an intelligent, informed vote on more than 2,260 pages of lawyer-written legal jargon.

Perhaps the urgency to pass these monstrous pieces legislation is that hidden within the pages, they have an agenda planned for us that they know "we the people" would not tolerate if we knew all the details.

Both bills are very expensive and will increase our taxes and federal deficit. (Just what we all need.) Both bills give "Big Brother" much more control over our private lives. (Remember the book "1984"?)

Both bills have parts that are blatantly unconstitutional. Both bills are supported by Rep. Richard Durbin.

On Nov. 8, I will be voting for another bill, Bill Owens, that is. Bill Owens has pledged to strictly uphold the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, cut taxes and reduce big government.

By the way, Bill Owens is not a lawyer.

Clarkin reader defends 'old phony' Jesse Helms

TO THE EDITOR:

This is in response to Carol Clarkin's column of Aug. 18, in which she took to task Sen. Jesse Helms and the other 62 senators who voted for the bill that would deny federal aid to school systems that "encouraged or supported homosexuality as a positive lifestyle alternative."

She stated that she had come to a "rolling boil" over it. She called Helms a "sanctimonious old phony," and she suggested that while Helms and Sen. Robert Smith expressed their "shock, horror, disgust" etc. over materials they claim are presented to school kids they would offer them to be shown to "fellow solons on a peep show basis. The Dirty Old Men's Club?"

Carol, I recall that some months ago you wrote a column disparaging some readers who responded negatively to one of your columns, and you made quite a point about their anger and name-calling, which you, I believe, abhorred. It now seems that the shoe is on the other foot. The point? When people feel strongly about an issue, it is easy to slip into strong language. When people with liberal viewpoints do it, it's called freedom of speech. When people with a conservative, Judao-Christian point of view do the same, they are often dubbed "members of the hate-filled religious right."

In response to some of the other points in your column, no one said that these materials were in all schools, but they are in some, and once the envelope has been pushed open, they can spread. Be assured that the literature these 63 senators came out against was indeed graphic and shocking. What sane parents would want their children robbed of their innocence by exposure to materials like that?

I understand your defense of your homosexual friends, but there is a darker side to the gay rights agenda that you may not be aware of. You probably have not seen the tapes of the gay rights parade in Washington, D.C., that were not shown on national TV, that showed bare-breasted women parading, the militant drag queens, the marchers ripping pages from the Bible as they marched, and chanting and waving signs that said "Bring back the lions." You must not have seen the footage that showed men and women engaged in almost every sex act imaginable in public, on the streets of our capitol, with the police doing nothing.

You probably have never heard of NAMBLA, the North American Man/Boy Love Association. (You can guess what their goals are.) And you most likely have not heard the audio tapes of the assault by a group of militant homosexuals on a church in San Francisco a couple of years ago because they were having a guest speaker who spoke out against homosexuality as sinful.

Now before you say this is a hate-filled letter, consider this: Just as your friends, and mine, who may be homosexual are not a part of these factions, the factions do exist, and they wield considerable power. I'm sure your friends don't go out recruiting children and teens to their lifestyle, but there are many who do, and who would like the right to do more. Their agenda has nothing to do with teaching, as you put it, "factual information about our bodies, human sexuality, and AIDS." It has to do with encouraging children to become sexually active at a time when, due to raging hormones, many kids suffer some confusion about their sexual identity.

Hooray for Helms. I believe he truly has our kids' best interests at heart. I only wish our own senators did.

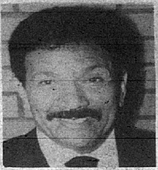
War of words continues

Debate continues over county auditor's mileage



Garrett

Bathon

The war of words between Madison County Auditor Fred Bathon and two County Board members continued at a Finance Committee meeting recently, but some committee members are tiring of the verbal fireworks.

At the meeting, Bathon turned over travel records for his staff since Nov. 1 to board members Jack Frandsen of Alhambra and Don Garrett of Madison.

The board members demanded the documents in a Freedom of Information Act request filed last week with the County Clerk's Office.

Frandsen and Garrett contend Bathon's office, which reviews expenditures of other county offices, should be subject to the same scrutiny.

Bathon counters that his office expenditures are reviewed by the county's outside auditors.

The two board members said they would review the documents and may comment on them later.

"I hope it's what they want," Committee Chairman Bill Little of Alton said. "They can look it over. I'd like to have this mileage thing cleared up so we can go on and do other things. I think it's over. I think it's history."

But it wasn't over.

Bathon said he would like to move on but continued to be the target of attacks from Frandsen.

"You're the ... guy that's attacking," Frandsen said. "You went back to 1991 to make me look bad."

"All you want to do is harass," Bathon responded. "You've got a vendetta, Jack."

After the meeting, Bathon said Frandsen is angry because changes in county mileage reimbursement procedures have cost him money and because he lost to Bathon in a 1988 Democratic primary election battle for the nomination for auditor.

"This is not about auditing pro cedures or good government," Bathon said.

Frandsen said after the meeting that Bathon tried to embarrass him in earlier disputes over mileage by citing figures from 1991, when the county's administration building was under construction and he and other members of the County Buildings Committee were meeting almost daily.

"I harass him in the name of the voters of my district," said Garrett, who added that his mileage claims have always been for attending to the business of his district.

Frandsen said Bathon is "no friend of the taxpayers" and obtained an assessment reduction of tens of thousands of dollars in 1992 for his nearly new home.

Bathon said later that he only took advantage of review procedures available to any property owner who believes an assessment is too high.

He said he built the house for less than its current assessment.

Frandsen also blasted Bathon for accepting a campaign contribution from someone who does business with the county, but Bathon said the contribution was from a friend who is a former executive of the county's outside auditors.

Bathon said he does not select or hire the outside auditors.

"If Jack wants to have a press conference or Fred wants to have a press conference, let them do it," committee member Alan Dunstan of Troy said after the meeting. "Let the Finance Committee get back to finances."

"I don't think the Finance Committee ought to be the forum for this," committee member Rudy Papa of Bethalto said.

The committee decided to invite the entire County Board to a meeting to discuss financing alternatives for proposed expansions of the county's jail and juvenile detention home.

Successful Transplanting is Easy With Tips From Frank's Experts!

Helpful tips on Transplanting from the experts at

FRANK'S®

Where Beautiful Things Begin

Many gardeners move plants from one spot to another. There are as many reasons for doing it as there are gardeners. The nice small shrub you planted years ago may have grown just a tad too big and may look better in the back of the yard somewhere. Perhaps the little toddler has grown and the basketball now presents a hazard to some prized plants. Or, you may want to just change things around.

When attempting to transplant, there are several things you must know. There's much more to it than just ripping a plant out of the ground and plopping it in a hole somewhere else. Digging a plant up and replanting it can be a little rough on the plant if you don't take the proper precautions. Naturally, we don't cherish the thought of that happening, so we're going to give you some tips.

Spring and fall are the best times of the year to transplant. In the fall, it should be done once the plant has started to go dormant. In spring, the best time is after the ground thaws but before the plant leafs out.

As a general rule, the smaller and younger the plant is, the better it will be able to withstand this procedure. Naturally, this can't be the case all the time.

Adequate soil around the plant's roots is of utmost importance. A plant that is moved very carefully, with as much undisturbed soil as possible, has a much better chance. We're not talking about a ton of soil that will require a block and tackle to lift, but a big enough amount to keep both you and the plant happy.

When transplanting, keep the roots moist at all times. Many folks have done everything else by the book, but neglected the exposed roots. And it's easy to do when you're pre-occupied with the task at hand. Once the roots dry out, the plant's chances of survival are virtually nil.

Don't allow the plant to remain out of the ground any longer than absolutely necessary. When it's out of the ground, it should not be exposed to wind or direct sunlight. And remember to keep the roots moist!

When digging the plant up, cut the least amount of roots possible. The roots supply nourishment and water to the rest of the plant, and it stands to reason that the fewer of them there are, the less nourishment for the plant.

Here's something to remember when transplanting trees and shrubs. Cut the top back by about a third. This is easy with some shrubs, but many people cannot stand the thought of removing branches from a beautiful, perfectly symmetrical tree. But experts agree and experiements have shown that you should stick to this rule if you want quick recovery of the tree. If you fail to do this, the tree may look perfectly okay at the start and you'll be glad you didn't cut branches. Alas, that happiness will be short-lived. The tree will eventually go into a relapse. You'll see poor foliage, poor growth and perhaps a dead branch or two. If it'll recover at all, you're talking years.

If the tree was properly pruned at the outset of the transplanting, it will be well on the way to a speedy recovery because it will have sufficient roots to support the amount of growth left on top.

Follow our advice and you should be able to transplant with confidence. Your plants should not only survive, but lead a long, healthy life!

A gift for Jay

Leno to get local items

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

If a local tourism official gets her wish, Americans could be hearing a few jokes about Cahokia Mounds, the ketchup bottle water tower or horseradish from "Tonight Show" host Jay Leno.

Leno plans to do a show on location in Chicago in November, and the public relations firm for the Illinois Department of Tourism is putting together a basket of information and promotional items on tourist attractions throughout the state.

Sallie Jo Burton of the Collinsville Convention and Visitors Bureau said Wednesday that she is putting together items from several of the city's top attractions: the Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site, Fairmount Park, the International Horseradish Festival and the Brooks Foods ketchup bottle water tower.

Burton said the purpose of the basket of items is to give Leno's writers some ideas in case they want to feature Illinois attractions when he does his show in Chicago.

Among things she is sending for inclusion in the package: a ketchup bottle T-shirt, a birdman tablet and a book from Cahokia Mounds and a kit that would allow Leno to sprout his own horseradish.

"We have real nice kits on how to grow your own horseradish," she said. "We keep the roots, and they're in dirt, in a plastic bag."

Burton said she had no idea if the show would choose to feature Collinsville attractions.

"I don't know. I hope so," she said. "I think it depends on what touches somebody's funny bone."

Three weeks in a foreign land

Eighth-grader travels to China

By Mark Hodapp
Staff writer

Prior to making his trip, Joel was required to study and attend six two-hour seminars on the Chinese customs and history.

Joel Seipp has always like to travel.

How this 13-year-old O'Fallon resident ended up in China is a still mystery to his mom, Shirley Seipp.

But Seipp, an eighth-grader at St. Clare School, recently had the rare opportunity to spend three weeks in The People's Republic of China, as one of 14 junior high students participating in this summer's People to People Student Ambassador Program.

Shirley assumes her son was chosen for this program because of his good grades.

While in China, Joel was able to visit many different cities including Hong Kong, Shanghai, Qufu, Weifang and Baku, the capital of Azerbaijan SSR.

Joel said the trip was a very rewarding experience.

"I was extremely impressed with the city of Qufu," he said.

Qufu was the birth place of Confucius, the famous Chinese teacher and philosopher who lived from 551-479 B.C.

Confucius, along with 78 of his descendants, are buried in Qufu today.

Prior to making his trip, Joel was required to study and attend six two-hour seminars on the Chinese customs and history.

The trip had its share of surprises. Prior to making his trip to China, Joel said he always liked eating Chinese food.

Joel said the Chinese food served United States is not the same as the authentic cuisine. For instance, in China when they cook a chicken, they cook everything, including the head, Joel said.

Joel was surprised to see Chinese children know how to play basketball, too.

He was also impressed with the children's fluency in the English language. For example, a Shanghai kindergarten class performed a special play for his group partially in English.

Joel said he also visited a silk, embroidery, jade and pottery factory.

While at the embroidery factory, Joel said he saw something unusual. The embroidery workers brought their children to work, he said.

But the lifestyle differences don't end there.

On China's open market, Joel learned how to talk sellers down on their asking price for a project. The secret, he said, was to tell them their product's price was too high and then slowly walk away from their stand.

In a matter of seconds, the seller would track the buyer down and make a counter offer, he said.

Joel said China's roads are congested with automobile and bicycle traffic. He also made a keen observation.

"A lot of Chinese people drive BMW's," he said. And very few drive American cars. In fact, he said he only saw handful of American cars driven during his entire visit.

Tops 'N' Bottoms Shop wins honor

Tops 'N' Bottoms Sportswear Shop, 1343 19th St., now in its 30th year in downtown Granite City, has been honored as the Tri Cities Area Chamber of Commerce's Small Business of the Month.

The shop, which specializes in women's coordinate fashions in missy sizes, is owned by Elmer and Judy Stille.

Tops 'N' Bottoms started in business in a small shop at 1915 State St., which was a part of the Southwick Hardware Co. building. The location is now a bank parking lot.

A move to the present location was made in 1968. When the business began in 1965, there were eight women's apparel shops in the downtown business district; today only Tops 'N' Bottoms remains.

Through the past 30 years, many changes in women's fashions have taken place, but basic styles continue to be a strong part of the business: skirts, from minis to maxis, slim to full, gored to straight, and pants, from bell bottoms to tight legs. Stirrups have been on the fashion scene through these years.

Jim Seiz, right, presents the owners of Tops 'N' Bottoms, Judy and Elmer Stille, with their Small Business of the Month award.

Although the business requires much of the owners' time, the Stilles have been and continue to be deeply involved in community and church activities. The Granite City Rotary Club, the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, Old Six Mile Historical Society, the Granite City Ambassadors, the Lewis and Clark Society and the Granite City Centennial Corporation are among the organizations in which they are involved.

Lifelong members of St. John United Church of Christ, both are members of the chancel choir; and both are past presidents of the church council and have served on many committees and in the Sunday school program.

Future plans are to continue the business in downtown Granite City and to offer quality women's wear at moderate prices, offering the personal service that has always been a part of its service to the community and to being a part of the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Granite City in 1996.

Stephens fighting permit plan for trailers

At the Illinois Farm Bureau Headquarters in Bloomington, state Rep. Ron Stephens suggested that state officials dump the plan to issue permits to trailers hauling farm implements more than 12 feet wide.

The permit requirements were added to HB 1792 last year at the request of the Illinois State Police. As sponsor of the bill, Stephens was assured that the Farm Bureau and implement dealers had no objections to the state police plan, he said.

"The Legislature believed that this bill would have minimal impact except increasing safety," Stephens said.

After the bill passed, Stephens became aware of IDOT's plan to create costly and burdensome requirements for the permits.

"This bill was designed to improve highway safety, not create needless costs and paperwork to already overburdened farmers and implement dealers," said Stephens.

A series of meetings lead to the Illinois Farm Bureau conference on Monday, Aug. 15. After hearing testimony from all interested parties, Stephens announced he was not satisfied that the bill, as implemented, was workable and will introduce legislation to repeal the requirements.

"We learned today that accident statistics do not support claims that hauling farm implements is unsafe," said Stephens. "We also heard little to encourage us that the process of issuing permits is workable."

Stephens said the reasonable course of action is to repeal the permit requirement.

Special recognition has been given to C.D. Peters Construction Co. of Granite City for its excellent safety record. American Steel managers and Southern Illinois Builders Association representatives honored the Peters crew upon completion of multiple American Steel projects without a lost time accident.

"We congratulate C.D. Peters Construction Co. for their dedication to the safety of their employees," said Garland E. Whitworth, director of safety and education for the Southern Illinois Builders Association.

Other C.D. Peters crew members who received recognition for safe work habits are from left: Dwayne Rickert, carpenter foreman; David Clark, laborer foreman; Bill Donovan, American Steel plant manager; Pete Matesa, carpenter foreman; and Garland Whitworth, Southern Illinois Builders Association.

Disability insurance always a necessity

This is the sixth article in a series entitled "Making Sense of Your Money".

Brian Mulhall

Disability insurance is a necessity since statistics show that you are seven times more likely to be disabled before you reach age 65 than you are to die. Although disability is not as final as death, it often can be more financially devastating. Most people assume that Social Security and worker's compensation will provide an adequate safety net, but they do not.

Numerous cases show the Social Security Administration denies disability benefits to nearly two-thirds of the individuals who apply and worker's compensation pays only for job-related disability and most accidents or illnesses are not job related.

When it comes to disability insurance protection, age is a very important factor. The younger you are, the more disability insurance protection you are likely to need.

Why? Younger people usually have limited investment, so they have to rely almost entirely on their productive money-making years to make ends meet and to achieve financial security. If a younger person's earning power is interrupted by an uninsured long-term disability, the potential to achieve financial security later on may be seriously impaired.

How much disability insurance do you need?

Depending on how much income your asset base can generate, your disability coverage should provide benefits that equal 60 to 70 percent of your current gross salary. Keep in mind that if your employer provides disability coverage for you, those benefits will come to you as a taxable income. Thus, on a net take home benefit, 60 to 70 percent of coverage could slip to 40 to 50 percent after tax, depending on your tax bracket.

So, you must ask yourself if you could live on that much income in the event of disability. If you pay the premiums on the plan, your benefits will come to you tax free.

Your policy should contain the following features:

✓ It should be noncancellable. This means the insurance company cannot raise your premiums.

✓ It should be guaranteed renewable. This means it cannot be canceled until you reach at least age 65.

✓ If you are in a profession, the definition of disability should be the ability for you to engage in your regular occupation.

✓ The incontestable clause should require that the policy is incontestable for any reason after two years have passed from the time you purchase the policy.

✓ The policy should pay a percentage of the full disability amount if you work while recuperating. This is known as a residual feature and it's definition is extremely important. Definitions which measure the time the disabled person works generally are not in your best interest.

✓ Consider a waiver of premium provision, which will give you 60 days after complete recovery from a claim to get back on your feet before premiums are due.

✓ Another good feature is the automatic increase benefit, which provides an inflation benefit by allowing you to purchase more disability insurance automatically during the years you own the contract. Without it, you would be forced to watch the buying power of your fixed monthly benefit slowly erode.

Some insurance policies define disability as any condition leading to a loss of income. These policies are the most comprehensive, but they are also the most expensive. Make sure that any policy you buy covers disability from both accident and sickness. Be sure to check the benefits period; the longer the policy benefits cover (such as 10 years, to age 65, or for life), the higher the premium you will pay.

You also need to know about the elimination period. This is the time that elapses between the onset of disability and the beginning of the benefit period. During the elimination period, you must be able to pay for your own expenses. These periods generally range from 30 days to one year.

As long as you can afford to cover a period of disability out of your own savings, you can opt for a longer elimination period. The longer the period, the lower the premium.

Golf complex is on course for this fall

By Mike Viola
Staff writer

This fall developers of a golf course and conference center in East St. Louis are expected to break ground on the $12 million complex.

"We're looking at hopefully getting things underway in October," said Patrick Fister, senior vice-president of Hale Irwin Golf Services which is the designer and manager of the golf course. "Sometimes it takes a little longer than expected to get everything in place."

Fister said developers of the complex are in the process of finalizing the acquisition of land for the project. He said all of the neccessary land is presently under contract.

Work is now underway with several environmental agencies and the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers to ensure that wetland areas are not destroyed with the construction of the golf course and conference center.

If construction can begin later this fall and if the weather cooperates, play on the state-of-the-art course could begin as early as 1996, Fister said.

In March, a press conference was held announcing plans to locate the golf course and convention center on the East St. Louis riverfront. Officials from the Koman Group and Hale Irwan Golf Services were in attendance at the conference.

The Koman Group is the developer of the project. William Koman is an owner of the Casino Queen.

A Michael Jordan Golf Learning Center is also being considered for the site.

The course, which would be of the caliber to host amateur and professional events, is expected to attract office workers from St. Louis as well as golfers from the Metro East.

The 40,000 square foot conference and banquet center will be able to serve up to 800 people.

After the March press conference, a lawsuit was filed by a landowner of property along the riverfront, Amiel Cueto, who claims that the announcement of the golf course eliminated him from another financial deal.

Cueto, an attorney from Belleville, owns 32 acres of riverfront property. He has filed a $12 million lawsuit with the city, Casino Queen and the Koman Group named as defendants.

City officials countered shortly after the suit was filed claiming that it never said exactly where the golf course would be located and pointed out that several sites were under consideration.

Board to vote on Belle license renewal

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Gaming Board will be in Alton Sept. 30 to vote on renewal of the Alton Belle Casino license.

State Treasurer Patrick Quinn is expected to appear at the meeting to urge the board to make the license conditional because Quinn wants the biggest shareholder in the Belle's parent company, Argosy Gaming Co., to pay back a state loan for a Springfield hotel.

The board will meet at the Alton Holiday Inn and is expected to vote on the Belle's license renewal application, spokesman Corey Aronovitz said.

After an initial three-year license, floating casinos must seek annual renewals from the Gaming Board. The Belle was the first casino to open in September 1991 and is the first up for renewal.

Aronovitz said the board will base its vote on materials submitted by Argosy and on a secret study of the Belle's economic impact on the River Bend that was commissioned by the board from the University of Illinois Institute of Government and Public Affairs.

Aronovitz, who is also legal counsel to the board, said the board considers the economic study confidential and exempt from the state Freedom of Information Act as part of its license investigation process.

The Belle license is held by a wholly-owned subsidiary of Argosy Gaming Co., whose board chairman and largest individual stockholder is Springfield businessman and longtime Republican power William Cellini.

Cellini has long been a target of Quinn, a Democrat, who has made an issue of the failure of owners of the luxury Renaissance Hotel in Springfield to pay back a state construction loan granted in 1982.

Cellini was the most prominent investor in the hotel, although he now says he owns only 1 per cent.

Under a 1988 restructuring of the loan, jointly approved by former Treasurer Jerome Cosentino and Gov. James Thompson on their last day in office, the hotel owners are not required to make loan payments unless the operation makes a profit.

Stark suggested Smith write a letter to the Mitchell Water Board, which he did. The board gladly accepted Smith's offer to paint the hydrants. The board told him what he had to do, what type of paint to use and gave him a map of the water district, which includes 1,740 customers.

"There is a fire plug within 600 feet of every house in the district, so that's a lot of territory," Stark said.

However, Stark didn't think that was much of a problem for Smith. "He's somewhat like a contractor. He finds the job, finds out what kind of work will have to be done, gets donations and forms crews," he said.

Smith, an eleventh-grader at Granite City High School, said he and the crews spent two weeks on the service project. He got donations of paint and brushes from the Mitchell Water Department, Ace Hardware in Madison and Sherwin-Williams Co. in Granite City.

The workers used red latex paint because latex lasts longer, and red because it is easy to see. "These hydrants have to be visible," Stark said.

Stark said the crews had to scrub each hydrant down before they could even be painted. They also had to pull weeds away from the hydrants before painting them.

Smith said that he and the teams had a good time painting the hydrants, but it was a lot of hard work, especially in the late August heat.

"Every once in awhile we'd take a bucket of water and pour it over our heads," he said.

Smith, the son of Edward and JoAnn Smith, said the teams usually worked from 9 a.m. to noon, but near the end it was more like 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Just before school was set to start, Smith and his teams only had seven hydrants left to paint.

Stark said that Smith has been involved with several service projects, including "Stash the Trash" and safety projects.

Quinn still pushing for term limits

SPRINGFIELD — A group led by state Treasurer Pat Quinn has asked the Illinois Supreme Court to reconsider its decision earlier this month blocking a referendum on term limits for lawmakers.

The petition for the Eight is Enough group called on the high court majority to state the reasons for its decision. The petition stated there is sufficient time to reconsider before the first ballot certification deadline of Sept. 8.

The high court issued an unusual 4-3 decision blocking a referendum on a state constitutional amendment limiting lawmakers to eight years in office. The majority gave no reasons for its decision.

"The four judges on the Supreme Court who ruled against the term limits referendum have shown little regard for the 6.2 million registered voters in our state by failing to explain their decision," Quinn said.

The Eight is Enough group filed more than 437,000 signatures to get the issue on the ballot and the petitions were determined to be sufficient by the State Board of Elections.

However, the Chicago Bar Association challenged the referendum, arguing it was unconstitutional because it did not fall under the limit of citizen initiative amendments to "structural and procedural matters" of the Legislature.

The rehearing petition argues a rehearing should be granted if a majority of the court now thinks the standard has been changed from previous court decisions.

Tool man: 'No two are alike,' says collector

By Deb Sauerhage
Correspondent

Lawrence Friederich has so many tools they won't fit in a tool box.

In fact, Friederich had to build a special wagon to hold the hundreds of old tools he has collected over the past 12 years.

The Mascoutah man said his interest in old tools grew from another hobby. "I always fooled around with antique tractors," he said. "Then I started picking up old tools."

Friederich estimates he has about a 1,000 different tools, from six different states. The oldest ones in his collection are from the early 1900s.

"Most of the older ones have square heads," he said. "The older people call them 'knuckle busters.' When you put pressure on them to turn them, you can scrape your knuckles."

A large part of Friederich's tools are wrenches, with the oldest being a monkey wrench from 1886. He finds most of his treasures at auctions and flea markets.

"You'd think I had a fortune in these tools. But I sure don't."

Friederich said that years ago buckets of old tools sold for only a few dollars at auctions.

Now you can buy them for $2 or $3 a piece.

"Several years ago at a flea market in Mount Pleasant, Iowa, a guy pulled in with a truckload of old tools," said Friederich, who is a retired farmer. "You could pick what you wanted for a $1 a piece. I really dug around and bought $200 worth of tools."

Every year he brings his collection to the Mascoutah Homecoming for display.

"No two are alike," he says with pride.

Area 4-H'ers have award-winning day at Illinois State Fair

Madison-St. Clair Extension Unit 4-H'ers had an award-winning day at the 1994 Illinois State Fair on Thursday, Aug. 18.

The area youngsters were among more than 7,000 who exhibited projects in the Junior Division of this year's fair, which ran through Aug. 21.

Fifty-three Madison-St. Clair 4-H'ers received Superior Awards for their entries. These special purple ribbons are awarded at the discretion of the judges to entries they considered outstanding. Local Superior Award winners included:

Alhambra - Lindsay Hess, Conservation; Kim Knackstedt, Home Furnishings; Deanna Townzen, Clothing; Crystal Uhe, Forestry; Casey Winet, Foods.

Belleville - Joe Bien, Entomology; Julie Fowler, Clothing.

Collinsville - Elizabeth Knapp, Conservation.

East St. Louis - Nekieisha Moody, Visual Arts.

Edwardsville - Julie Brinker, Forestry; Todd Frank, Small Engines; Brett Grotefendt, Woodworking; Christopher Haarmann, Small Engines; Andrew Klenke, Foods; Kris Koenig, Foods; Jeremy Kruckeberg, Small Engines; Chris Loemker, Electricity; Andrew Pilla, Visual Arts; Kristi Schmidt, Home Furnishings; Randy Schmidt, Computer Science; Kara Smith, Electricity.

Freeburg - Matt Biver, Photography; Kristen Janik, Horticulture; Frank Wurth, Woodworking.

Granite City - Colleen Fritzsche, Communication; Brenda Fritzsche, Communication; Christopher Roady, Conservation; Michelle Sorenson, Campcraft.

The state fair "conference judging" experience offers Illinois 4-H'ers a unique opportunity to talk with experts in their project area, said Debra Stocker, Extension assistant of 4-H and youth development with the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

"In conference judging, the 4-H'er and the judge discuss the youngster's project one-on-one," she said. "The 4-H'er answers questions and describes how the project developed. In turn, the judge offers constructive criticism that helps the exhibitor understand what was done especially well and what might be improved for next time."

4-H'ers prepare their projects all year for county fairs and 4-H shows. "Only the best of those projects are eligible to be shown at the state fair," Stocker said. In recognition for having been chosen to exhibit at the 1994 State Fair Junior Show, each 4-H'er who brings a project to the fair receives an Award of Excellence.

These Madison-St. Clair youngsters are among more than 160,000 involved in the statewide 4-H program, which is coordinated by the U of I Cooperative Extension Service.

Jog/Walk-A-Thon raises money for hospice care

The 10th Annual Hospice of Southern Illinois, Inc. Jog/Walk-A-Thon recently was held to help raise funds, and to promote hospice care.

The annual event was held in Carbondale at McAndrew Stadium, and in Fairview Heights at Longacre Park.

Every year the co-chairs of the event, Jim Hart and Dave Butz, try to promote friendly competition between the two towns to see which team can raise more money for the not-for-profit hospice.

The Carbondale team raised $4,344 by soliciting pledges and donations. The Fairview Heights team raised $5,820. Helen Goss of Marion, a volunteer for Hospice of Southern Illinois, Inc., raised $2,285 of the total.

"Helen is an incredible volunteer," said Tim Snodgrass, director of marketing and development for Hospice of Southern Illinois, Inc. "She went door-to-door getting donations for us. Then she came out to McAndrew Stadium the day of the event to cheer on the other walkers and joggers. This is the second year in a row that Helen has been the top money-raiser from the Carbondale area. Last year she raised $1,500."

Marcia Scrivner of Belleville was the top money-raiser for the Fairview Heights walk with $3,220. Scrivner also is chair of the Jog/Walk-A-Thon committee which plans the annual event. She has been the top money-raiser for the past three years.

The money will be used to provide a full range of hospice services to patients and families in the 27-county southern Illinois region that Hospice of Southern Illinois, Inc., covers, said Snodgrass.

"Hospice of Southern Illinois, Inc., is the only Medicare- and Medicaid-certified program in southern Illinois which accepts indigent patients in the program," Snodgrass said. "Since we do not bill our patients or their families for the hospice services we provide, it is important to reach out to the communities we serve for support. So far that support has been fantastic."

Vacation Bible School held

Brightly colored balloons created just the right environment for the "Let's Celebrate Jesus" theme for vacation Bible school held Aug. 5 at St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ.

Madison United Presbyterian, First Presbyterian and Nameoki Presbyterian churches united with St. Peter United Church of Christ for this event.

Eighty-seven students, teachers and helpers took part in the festivities, along with Rev. Rose Hermonat from St. Peter United Church of Christ, Rev. Vicki Hardin-Evans from Nameoki Presbyterian and Rev. Lewis Trotter from First Presbyterian.

A nutritious lunch was served each day.

Co-directors were Joyce Toussaint, Shirley Yates, Sarah Wilkerson and Linda Watson. Karen Anders and her staff coordinated the lunches each day.

A pizza party in Wilson Park followed the last day of vacation Bible school.

The Salvation Army Bible School was an unusual experience for 90 children during the week of Aug. 15-19. Each child was given a passport to "fly" to the Holy Land. The children were divided into groups. They visited Capernam, Nazareth, Bethany and Bethlehem. Each city was a true experience in Jesus' life.

Refreshments were a bowl of stew, tuna fish sandwiches and a bag of raisins and nuts a shepherd had in his pouch.

The last evening was the market place, where Jesus often went to talk to the people. The market place is how the shopping malls of today originated.

Starting in September, there will be Sunbeams for girls six to 12 years of age, teen groups on Monday nights and Boy Guards, Girl Guards and Boys Club on Saturdays.

Warriors clipped by O'Fallon, 27-0

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The visiting O'Fallon Panthers let their defense do the work again Friday, and the Granite City Warriors were left with plenty of work ahead of them.

O'Fallon registered its second straight shutout, a 27-0 victory over the Warriors at Memorial Stadium. The Panthers improved to 2-0 and have yet to give up any points this season.

THE PANTHERS' defense dictated the pace and held the Warriors (0-2) to just 96 yards of total offense. O'Fallon scored two defensive touchdowns and forced a total of four turnovers.

"We came in thinking we have a pretty good defense," O'Fallon coach Gary Bridell said. "We're always happy with a win. We like to shut them out if we can."

O'Fallon's attack defense put heavy pressure on the Warriors throughout the game. The Panthers had five sacks and forced turnovers on three of Granite City's final four possessions.

"We're inexperienced, so we're going to make some mistakes," GCHS coach Don Harris said. "O'Fallon is a sound football team. When you make mistakes, they're going to take advantage of it.

"I thought they were very aggressive and had an attack defense. They played an excellent game."

IT WAS THE Warriors' defense, however, that turned in the first big play when Jason Hitchcock intercepted O'Fallon quarterback Cory Alexander on the first play from scrimmage. But the Panthers' defense tightened up quickly and the Warriors were forced to punt after three downs.

Alexander then marched the Panthers 77 yards on 11 plays and scored their only offensive touchdown of the game, a 2-yard run with 4:21 left in the first quarter. Alexander added the extra-point kick for a 7-0 lead.

The Panthers upped the lead on Granite City's ensuing series when Monte Mister intercepted Granite City quarterback Kyle Briggs and raced 50 yards for a touchdown. Alexander's extra point gave O'Fallon a 14-0 lead with 54 seconds left in the quarter.

The Warriors get ready to run a play during the season opener against Cahokia last week. Granite City opens Southwestern Conference play Friday on the road against Belleville West.

"We scored and got another touchdown, and that was good," said Bridell, who added he would have preferred more scoring from his offense. "We moved the ball well; we just didn't get it into the end zone enough."

AFTER THE WARRIORS punted on their next series, O'Fallon drove to Granite City's 10-yard line and settled for a 27-yard field goal by Alexander with 6:20 left in the second quarter. Alexander added another field goal, a 32-yarder, with eight seconds left in the first half to make it 20-0.

The Warriors took the opening kick in the second half and put together their longest drive of the game, moving the ball from their own 29-yard line to O'Fallon's 25. But the Panthers held strong once again, and the Warriors came away empty.

Both teams traded off several possessions, and the only scoring of the second half came midway through the fourth quarter. O'Fallon defensive tackle Kareem Vaughn scooped up a fumble by Briggs and rumbled 21 yards for a touchdown. Alexander added the extra point to close out the scoring with 7:03 to go in the game.

Fourth Quarter

Alexander accounted for 14 points on the night, more than half of O'Fallon's total.

"CORY'S A GOOD kid," Bridell said. "He's an all-around football player. He plays good defense, too."

O'Fallon was led offensively by its two running backs, Rashad Bartholomew and Victor Davis. Bartholomew led all rushers with 73 yards on 13 carries, while Davis had 57 yards on 10 carries.

"I thought the offensive line did a super job," Bridell said. "They came off the ball real well."

Granite City's running game, meanwhile, could not get much going after a rough first half — when the Warriors managed just 20 yards rushing on 18 carries. The Warriors passed more in the second half, but without much success.

Granite City was led offensively by Billy Niepert, who rushed for 41 yards on 10 carries in the second half.

"We made a few adjustments in the second half and just kind of settled down," Harris said. "We did a good job in the first drive. We wanted to make some things happen, but their defense met the challenge."

Matt Little helped the Warriors start the home season on the right foot Thursday against McCluer North.

Little scores twice as Warriors open home season with 5-0 win

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Matt Little came up big with a pivotal goal in the closing minutes of the first half, and the Warrior soccer team went on to rout McCluer North 5-0 in its home opener Thursday night at The Gauntlet.

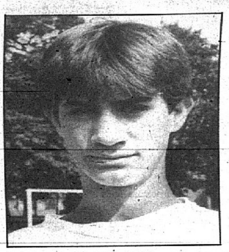
Little scored at 35:48 to give Granite City a 2-0 lead after the Warriors spent most of the opening half working for scoring opportunities in the offensive end. Little scored again in the second half when he converted a penalty kick at the 63:38 mark.

THE JUNIOR midfielder's first goal came with 4:12 remaining in the first half and gave the Warriors some breathing room entering halftime.

"It gave us a boost and got everybody going," Little said. "We got our jitters out. It takes us a while to get going, I think."

Granite City dominated the rest of the contest and improved to 2-0 with its first shutout of the year. McCluer North dropped to 0-2.

The Warriors were coming off a hard-fought victory over Peoria Richwoods in their season opener last weekend. Granite City survived a minor scare and prevailed 4-2 in overtime.



Justin McMillian

The Warriors bounced back strongly against McCluer North, which is rebuilding after losing several top players to graduation.

"We played pretty well," GCHS coach Gene Baker said. "McCluer North has a great program, but they don't have one of their better teams this year. They can hold their heads high. They were aggressive and they worked hard.

"I thought it was a pretty entertaining game. We got a good, balanced attack."

The Warriors had several scoring chances, but didn't connect again until Little scored late in the half. The play began off a corner kick, when Corey Kessler took a pass from John Nizinski and drove across the middle of the box.

Kessler ran into a crowd of players and touched the ball over to Little, who was open on the left side. Little's shot deflected off McCluer North defender

Golfers tough again at home

By Rob Raphael
Correspondent

It's becoming apparant that teams who play against Granite City at Arlington Golf Course had better pack their good clubs.

After a rainout Tuesday against Marquette and Metro East Lutheran, and another postponement Wednesday at Edwardsville, the Warriors returned home Thursday and outmatched their opponents. Granite City used a one-under 35 by Greg Bixler and a one-over 37 by John Green to destroy Wood River and Roxana.

THE WARRIORS finished at 153 — only nine strokes above par for the four scoring golfers.

Roxana came in second at 185, and Wood River brought up the rear at 189. Granite City improved to 4-0 in match play.

"We did rather well again," said a modest Boone Chaney, who seems to be enjoying his first year as Warrior head coach. "I do hope we can continue to play this well. As always, it's a team effort."

David Martin and Ken Felty were the other Warrior golfers who added to the team score on Thursday. Martin shot a 40 and Felty added a 41.

Some Warrior golfers did struggle some, but so far this year Granite City has always managed a group of at least four good scores.

"That's a big asset of our team right now," Chaney said. "If someone has an off day, he can count on a teammate to pick him up.

"We have mostly seniors and juniors, so we're an experienced enough group that we should be able to get enough good scores to compete."

OTHER WARRIOR scores on Thursday were Ryan Duft with a

Lady Warriors rally to win opener

By Rob Raphael
Correspondent

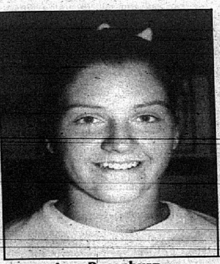
The Lady Warriors will try to continue to improve in 1994, and if they do go on to bigger and better things, they might look back to their season opener Thursday in Bethalto.

Granite City came back from a game down to defeat Civic Memorial 10-15, 15-10 and 15-12. It made a fun evening out of what appeared at first to be a case of the first-game jitters.

"THE FIRST GAME was not pretty," said coach Cindy Gagich. "We made a lot of mental errors and didn't work well as a team."

Actually, through the first half of the second game, it looked as if the Lady Warriors might get swept by CM, which had the slight advantage of already playing their first match over the weekend against Marquette.

The Eagles ran out to a 9-2 lead in the second game, thanks to the serving of Becky Jones and Lori Burch. The score was 10-3 when senior captain Melanie



Ann Rosenburg

Tapp executed a kill to bring the side over to Granite City. That let Ann Rosenburg take over the serve.

"Ann has a couple different serves — one a floater and the other a topspin," Gagich said. "She really has an effective serve."

Volleyball

Rosenburg went on to serve eight straight points as the Lady Warriors got back in the match.

"SHE THREW THE Civic players off their game, and kept them out of their offense," Gagich said. "That really was a big turning point in the match."

Another strong point for the Lady Warriors was the play of 5-foot-10 middle hitter Jennifer Willis. Willis has not practiced much recently due to a muscle spasm, but she looked as though she hadn't missed a beat, unofficially registering 11 kills on the night.

"We had been concerned about Jennifer, but tonight she hit with power and really dominated at the net," Gagich said. "We didn't know how she would respond, but obviously we're pleased she was ready to go."

Willis also recorded six blocks, including a big one on a kill attempt by the Eagles' Brittany Mank that gave the Warriors an

Logan, Economy key for Flo Valley

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Ann Logan (far left) and Mikla Economy (second from left) of Granite City will be key members of Florissant Valley's women's soccer team this fall. With them are Alison Arnold of Edwardsville and coach Herb Foerster.

The Florissant Valley Community College women's soccer team is starting out from the top this season.

The Norsewomen, who placed third in last year's National Junior College Athletic Association national tournament, enter this season ranked first in the preseason NJCAA poll. Florissant Valley opened the season Saturday at home against College of DuPage, a Chicago-area school.

COACH HERB Foerster enters his second year at Florissant Valley hoping to build on last season's success. Six players return, including Granite City's Ann Logan, and the Norsewomen have a strong incoming class of freshmen that includes 1994 GCHS graduate Mikla Economy.

The Norsewomen ended last season 17-3 after advancing to the national tournament and defeating State University of New York-Farmingdale 3-0 in the third-place game. Florissant Valley earned widespread respect for its success in Foerster's first year, and is expected to be among the top NJCAA teams this season.

"They're putting some pressure on us with the top ranking, but I told the players not to worry about it too much," Foerster said. "We're hoping to get to nationals again this year.

"It's going to be an uphill battle, but I think the girls are focused. I told them just to go out and play. Every time we show up, we have to prove ourselves."

ONE PLAYER WITH little to prove is Logan, a sophomore who had eight goals and six assists last season. The 1993 GCHS graduate ended the year with a phenomenal hat-trick performance at the national tournament in Trenton, N.J., against Farmingdale.

Logan scored all three of Florissant Valley's goals in the first half. The talented midfielder was on a mission after missing a scoring chance or two in a semifinal loss to Essex (Md.) College. Essex went on to win the national championship.

"She was so upset for missing a couple chances in the semis," Foerster said. "She really came back and dug in."

Logan is ready to step it up again this season, and will start in the midfield. She is serving as one of Florissant Valley's three captains.

Foerster said Logan, a versatile player, will be counted on to move upfield on occasion and give the team an offensive spark.

"SHE'LL BE ONE of our main players this year," Foerster said. "She's a good player. She's going to be a major part of the midfield and she'll go up top, too.

"The thing about Ann is she can play anywhere and be very adequate."

The team's other two captains are Molly Pardo, from Aquinas-Mercy, and Sheri Massman, from Hazelwood West.

Pardo, who led the team in scoring with 11 goals and 16 assists last season, was an NJCAA second-team All-American. Massman had three goals and six assists and is expected to take over the sweeper position.

Also back are sophomore forward Pam Higgins (12 goals, seven assists) and sophomore midfielder Christi Dzurick (10 goals, six assists).

"We have four of our top five scorers back from last year, so that will help us," Foerster said.

WHILE THE Norsewomen should have plenty of offensive punch, Foerster is still determining his team's defensive starters. Among the candidates are four freshmen — Denise Meyer, Jeanna Bunt, Reagan Bealmear and Alison Arnold.

"All of them are very good players," Foerster said. "It's just a matter of how they fill in."

Sophomore goalkeeper Monica Jackson and her two backups, Economy and Laurie Dion, should take some of the pressure off the team's young defense. Jackson, an NJCAA first-team All-American last year, had 14 shutouts and led junior college goalkeepers with a 0.41 goals against average.

But Foerster said he expects Economy to see plenty of time off the bench. Economy was one of Granite City's top players last spring, when the Lady Warriors placed fourth at the Illinois state tournament.

"She's a good keeper," Foerster said. "She'll see plenty of playing time. She's really intense and she's working hard.

"She's pretty smart. She knows when to come out and when to stay in."

ECONOMY IS ONE of several top players in a freshman class that includes forwards Anne Boller and Ado Bauman, who should help out immediately as well.

"We'll have a very good bench this season," Foerster said.

The Norsewomen will need a strong bench. They will play a challenging schedule that includes five teams ranked in the Top 10 of the preseason poll.

"Our schedule is tough, but hopefully that will help us at the end of the season," Foerster said.

Foerster is hoping to maintain a winning tradition with the Norsewomen. He said last year's appearance at the national tournament will help several players move on to the next level.

"Players come here because they know they're going to get to go to a good (four-year) school," Foerster said. "They all got a lot of recognition at the national tournament last year."

Seets moves in on Wallace's night

By Rob Raphael

Auto racing

Yes, Rusty Wallace was on hand Wednesday night at Tri-City Speedway, but the star of the show was Tommy Seets.

Seets, a pro stock veteran, entered his brand new modified car and proceeded to destroy the competition, scoring a "hat trick" of sorts by winning all three races he competed in.

SEETS WON HIS modified heat, won the six-lap modified dash, then finished ahead of Marty Smith and Joe Creason to win the 25-lap modified feature.

Seets said even he was a little surprised at how well his new car ran in his first modified competition.

"I can't think of a better way to start competing in this class," he said. "Maybe I should retire undefeated. Seriously, it's a real treat to beat a group of drivers like this. I just thank my pit crew and my sponsors for helping me so much."

Wallace, a native of St. Louis and a veteran of the area dirt-track circuit, was on hand as master of ceremonies for the Miller/Genuine Draft 25-lap modified and late-model features.

Wallace also received a surprise Wednesday night, as he was given the honor of being the first inductee into the Legends of Tri-City Speedway Hall of Fame. Wallace received a plaque citing his career achievements at Tri-City.

"THIS IS definitely a surprise. I am truly honored," Wallace said. "I have fond memories of this place; and I thank everyone involved for this special honor."

Wallace's parents, Russ and Judy Wallace, were on hand to celebrate the induction.

"The place hasn't changed much," said Wallace, who has six Winston Cup wins in 1994 and is second in the points race. "This is always an exciting track. It's been fun seeing everybody and having time to relax this afternoon."

Wallace also spoke briefly about his good friend Ernie Irvan, who is currently recovering from serious injuries sustained in a practice run two weeks ago.

"It's been a tough year in many ways," he said. "(Crashing) is something we all think about all the time. You just hope when it happens it's not too serious. As it turns out, there was a problem with (Irvan's) seat belts."

SEETS LED FROM the start in the feature race, after coming from last place (sixth position) in the modified dash. He easily defeated Creason in the second modified heat.

Ed Dixon, one of the top modified drivers in the nation, led all the way in the late-model feature as he defeated Bo Smith and Gary Wilson. Dixon also won the late-model dash, but came in second in the first heat to Smith.

"It's nice to be back racing here again," Dixon said. "There were so many good drivers in this feature."

Besides Wallace, fans at the Speedway got another thrill, as the monster truck "Bigfoot" made an appearance.

Bigfoot will be on hand at the raceway the weekend of Sept. 30-Oct. 2 for Monster Truck Mania, the second year this type of feature will be held at Tri-City.

"We look forward to coming back this year," said Bigfoot driver Dan Rante. "The fans were great last year, and that makes the race. Without the fans, there wouldn't be much point in racing."

Matt Wunderlich and settled into the net.

"They were sort of whacking at Kessler and he got it through to me," Little said. "I got a little luck on it."

The score stayed at 2-0 until midway through the second half. Petroski scored the next goal on an assist by Jon Reader to make it 3-0 at 56:57.

LESS THAN 10 minutes later, Little drove to the net and earned a penalty kick when Wunderlich took him off the ball in the box. Wunderlich received a yellow card, and Little scored on the resulting shot to make it 4-0.

"I was just trying to get by him and beat him to the post," Little said.

Hayes completed the scoring with an unassisted goal at 70:19. The junior midfielder was coming off a back injury that sidelined him against Richwoods.

"We were happy to see him get in the scoring column," Baker said.

Granite City goalkeepers Mike Bristol and Jayson York combined for the shutout. Bristol faced just two shots. The Stars' first shot on goal did not come until 47:46 into the game.

The Warriors outshot the Stars 15-2 and had a 15-1 advantage in corner kicks. But Granite City figured to have a much tougher test Saturday at home against area power Vianney.

"Now we have a tough one," Baker said. "We're going to have to be on top of our game."

NOTES: Petroski's second-half goal gave him three for the season. The senior striker led GCHS with 16 goals last season and has started out this year strong with a team-best three goals in two games. Against Richwoods, Petroski scored twice in overtime to lift the Warriors to the victory.

Senior midfielder Paulie Bucherich is still recovering from off-season knee surgery and is hoping to make it back sometime this fall. Bucherich is wearing a brace on his right knee. He underwent arthroscopic surgery to repair ligament damage earlier this year.

Bucherich sat on the GCHS bench Thursday.

"He's got great desire," Baker said. "He really wants to play, but we don't want to take a chance on it this early."

Softball tournament

The Granite City Steel Softball Association will host a Class C and D men's tournament Sept. 9-11.

The entry fee is $125. Based on a 16-team field, first place will be worth $700, second place will be $450, third place will be $250 and fourth place will be $125.

For more information, call Rick Demaree at 931-4774 or Cindy Schubert at 931-5634.

Golf scramble

The Edwardsville/Glen Carbon Chamber of Commerce will host its third annual golf scramble Oct. 7 at Fox Creek Golf Club.

The fee of $70 per golfer includes 18 holes of golf with cart, greens fees, one mulligan per person per team, and food and beverages. Lunch will be served at 11:30 a.m., and the tournament will begin with a shotgun start at noon.

Prizes will be awarded for longest drive and closest to the pin. Attendance prizes will also be presented.

Beverages will be available throughout the course, and dinner will be served after the tournament. Non-golfers are welcome to join the group at 5:30 p.m. for dinner at a cost of $5 per person.

Four-player teams can be assembled in advance or matched up at the event. To register a team or to sign up as a $50 tee sponsor, call Rosanna Herren at the Chamber of Commerce office, 655-7600.

In case of inclement weather, a rain date will be announced.

Spoonhour at Sunset Hills

St. Louis University men's basketball coach Charlie Spoonhour will headline the second annual SIUE Celebrity Golf Benefit, scheduled for Monday, Sept. 19, at Sunset Hills Country Club in Edwardsville.

All proceeds will benefit SIUE men's basketball. The tourney includes a round of golf, cart, refreshments, team prizes and a buffet dinner.

In addition to Spoonhour — the 1993-94 Basketball Writers Coach of the Year — the list of celebrities scheduled to attend includes SIUE president Nancy Belck, KSDK-TV sports director Mike Bush and noted Final Four official Ed Hightower.

SIUE coach Jack Margenthaler will host the event, which has a 12:30 p.m. shotgun start. A reception will be held at 6 p.m., with dinner being served at 7.

Registration is $150 per person or $600 per foursome. Tee and/or green sponsorship is $100. For those wishing to attend the dinner and not play golf, the cost is $40. A total package of a foursome, one tee sponsorship and dinner for four is $700.

11-10 lead in the second game and finished an eight-point run, all with Rosenburg serving.

WHEN GRANITE CITY got the serve back, Erica Alsop took over, helping the Warriors to four straight points to win the game. Willis and Julie Bohnenstiel combined on two straight blocks to make it 14-10, and Willis' kill was the game-winner.

In a hotly-contested third game, CM looked like it had regained its senses, moving out to a 5-0 lead. But Alsop, Tapp and Denise McMillan all served well, with McMillan serving for five straight points.

Kills by Willis, Alsop, McMillan and Stephanie Brandy played big parts in the Lady Warrior run, which gave them a 9-7 lead and a world of momentum.

Willis had a strong kill at 10-8, but Burch answered for CM to keep it close. Bohnenstiehl's kill made it a 12-10 game, but Leah Suessen and Mank added spikes to tie the game at 12-12.

A PAIR OF Eagles' mistakes off of Granite City serves were costly, giving the Lady Warriors a 14-12 advantage. Brandt put CM away with a strong winner.

"We had been practicing well; that's why I think we knew we could play better than in game one," Gagich said. "We did the same thing last year when we played Civic — we lost the first game and had to win the last two. It would be nice if we could get that first one out of the way and not have to come back like that."

CM coach Char Miller had a long talk with her team after the game

The Lady Warriors opened their home schedule Friday against Highland, and are scheduled to face Edwardsville on Wednesday. But that match is unlikely due to the teachers strike there.

"If we do play them, we would have the advantage," Gagich said. "They're not allowing the teams — besides football — to practice during the strike. It's unfortunate, but maybe we'll be able to take advantage of it."

43, Tim Fulkerson with a 44, Doug Mills with a 45 and Pat Schuman with a 49.

"Pat's been shooting very well so far this season," Chaney said. "He just had an off-day Thursday. That's OK, he'll be back.

"We do have some golfers that have room for improvement. But overall, you have to be pleased at how well we have played as a team. It's been fun so far, but there's a lot of work to do yet."

The Warriors are scheduled to travel to Belleville West on Tuesday for one of the season's early tests. Chaney said West would be tough on their home course of Clinton Hills.

The next home match for the Warriors will also be very tough, as O'Fallon pays a visit to Arlington, as well as Edwardsville if their teachers strike is settled.

Both West and O'Fallon recently competed in the Quincy Tournament, so Chaney has had a look at both teams.

"West will be tough, but O'Fallon will be tougher," he said. "It's good that we have them at Arlington."

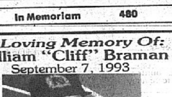
In Loving Memory Of:
William "Cliff" Braman
September 7, 1993



God saw that he was getting tired - and a cure was not to be. So He put his arms arount him and whispered, "Come with me." A golden heart stopped beating. His hard-working hands went to rest. God broke our hearts to prove to us, He only takes the Best.
